ADMISSION RIGHTS

*Binding arbitration is an alternative to judges or courts settling disputes between consumers and businesses. It means to work out a deal through an independent, third-party body. The arbitrator's decision is final and cannot be disputed or appealed. This removes the right to sue in court.

Effective 09/16/2019 if you or your representative are asked to sign an agreement for binding arbitration the facility must:

1. Not require the signature as a condition of admission, or as a requirement to continue to receive care at the facility and clearly tell you or your representative of this requirement.
2. Explain the agreement to you and your representative in a way that you understand;
3. Have you and your representative acknowledge that you understand the agreement;
4. Have the agreement give you or your representative this right to cancel the agreement within 30 days of signing it.

- You have the right to review the facility's admission agreement/contract and its rules and policies prior to admission.
- You cannot be discriminated against in the admission process based upon your source of payment (private, LTC insurance, Medicare, Medicaid, etc.)
- You have the right to choose where you want to live - either in a long-term care setting or in your home and community. The long-term care facility location you choose may not have an immediate opening so you may have to go where there is an opening and move when you can to your choice of location. For information on home and community service support calls 1-855-462-5465 (option 1).
- You can request and receive, in writing, the reason for the denial of your admission. The facility shall not in the written denial if the denial is based on the special characteristics or service limitations of the facility.
- The facility can't require your family or friends to commit to pay your facility bill from their personal funds.
- You cannot be required to give advance payment, gratuity, or gift to the facility to assure admission or to be placed on the waiting list.
- You cannot be asked to waive or give up any of your rights as a condition of admission or to continue to live at the facility.
- You can't be asked or required to waive facility liability for losses of your personal property.
- You must be given notice of special features or service limitations of the facility prior to admission.
