RESIDENT RIGHTS

Understanding your rights as a resident of an ND nursing facility

FREEDOM FROM ABUSE, NEGLECT, EXPLOITATION & RESTRAINTS

- You cannot be subjected to verbal, sexual, physical, or mental abuse. This includes the use of corporal punishment or involuntary isolation.
- You may request a copy of the facility's written policies/procedures regarding how they will prevent employment of persons convicted of mistreatment, neglect and abuse of residents.
- Chemical and Physical Restraints may not be used for the convenience of the staff or for disciplinary reasons and may be used ONLY:
 1. When ordered, in writing, by a doctor for a specified and limited period of time to treat a medical symptom and to ensure your safety or that of others.
 2. In Emergency situations during which your behavior has placed, or could place, yourself or others in danger of physical harm and the situation could not have been anticipated. Restraints can be applied in emergency situations only until a written order can be promptly obtained from your doctor.

Federal Law interprets physical and chemical restraints as follows:

Physical Restraints are “any manual or physical or mechanical device, material, or equipment attached or adjacent to your body that you cannot remove easily and which restricts freedom of movement or normal access to your body”.

Physical restraints include, but are not limited to, hand mitts, soft ties and rests, wheelchair safety bars, bed rails, or chairs that prevent rising. Also included as restraints are facility practices such as tucking in a sheet so tightly that a bed-bound resident cannot move or placing a wheelchair-bound resident so close to wall that the wall prevents the resident from rising.

Chemical Restraints means a “psychopharmacologic drug that is used for discipline or convenience and not required to treat medical symptoms”.

5. The tallest man ever recorded was American giant Robert Wadlow (1918–1940), who stood 8 feet 11 inches. Wadlow's size was the result of abnormally enlarged pituitary gland.
